GUIDES FOR EVERYTHING

AI Tools, Connectors & MCP Directory

More than 1,500 AI tools, connectors, and MCP servers, sorted into 23 categories, each with a plain-English description and a price label

This directory is a map of the AI landscape as it stands in October 2026: chat assistants, coding and vibe-coding tools, image, video, audio, writing, research, productivity, business, automation, agents, developer infrastructure, connectors, and MCP servers.

Every entry has a one-line description and a price label, so you can scan a category, spot what fits, and try it the same afternoon.

HOW TO READ THIS MANUAL

- Tip — a shortcut or good habit.
- Note — useful background.
- Warning — easy to get wrong.
- Danger — can lose data, money, or access.
- `$ command` — text you type, exactly as shown.
- Settings › Privacy — a menu path to click.

New words appear in bold the first time and are collected in the Glossary at the back.

Price labels and product details were checked against vendors' sites and public information in October 2026. The AI market changes weekly. Products get renamed, acquired, re-priced, or shut down, so always confirm on the vendor's site before you buy. Inclusion is not an endorsement.

Glossary 105

How to Use This Directory

The three price labels

LABEL	MEANING
FREE	Free to use. Often open source. There may be optional donations, self-hosting costs, or paid cloud versions, but the core product costs nothing
FREEMIUM	A genuinely useful free tier or free plan, with paid upgrades for more usage or features
PAID	Requires a paid plan (sometimes after a short free trial)

For connectors and MCP servers, the label reflects what it costs you to use, including the service it connects to. An open-source server for a paid service is labeled by the service.

Tips for exploring

- Start with the free tier. Most tools let you try before you pay.
- One tool per job. Pick a favorite in each category rather than subscribing to everything.
- Check privacy settings before uploading personal or work data.
- Watch for bundles. Many AI features now come inside things you already pay for (Google, Microsoft, Notion, Adobe, Canva).

> TIP
>
> New to a category? The other manuals in this series explain how to use the main tools: Everyday AI Tools, Vibe Coding, Claude Code, MCP, n8n, and Notion.

How to read this directory

Each chapter covers one kind of job, such as making images or answering customer emails. Inside each chapter, small tables list the tools. Every row has three parts:

PART	WHAT IT TELLS YOU
Name (maker)	The product, with the company behind it in brackets when the name alone is unclear
What it does	One plain-English line about the main job it is good at
Price label	Whether you can start for free (see the labels above)

A few words come up again and again. Here they are in plain English (the Glossary at the back has more):

- Model: the "brain" behind an AI tool. Several apps can use the same model.
- Open source or open-weight: the code or the model itself is published, so anyone can download and run it.
- Local: runs on your own computer instead of on a company's servers. Private, but needs a capable machine.
- API: a way for programs (not people) to use a service. API tools are for developers and usually charge per use.
- Agent: an AI that can take several steps on its own, such as browsing, clicking, and filling in forms.
- Connector and MCP server: plug-ins that let an assistant read and act in your other apps.

FIND THE RIGHT TOOL IN FIVE MINUTES

1. Name the job.
   Write one sentence: "I want to turn my meeting recordings into notes."
2. Open the matching chapter.
   Use the table of contents or the category index at the back.
3. Shortlist two or three.
   Prefer FREE or FREEMIUM rows so you can test before paying.
4. Try the same task in each.
   Use one real example, not a toy one, and compare results.
5. Check privacy and price.
   Read the vendor's pricing page and data policy before you upload anything personal.
6. Keep one, drop the rest.
   Cancel trials you will not use, so you are not charged later.

> NOTE
> "Free" rarely means unlimited. Free tiers usually cap how much you can use per day or month, add watermarks, or keep the newest models for paying users.

21.9 Local and open-source runners

Running a model locally keeps your data on your machine. Quantization shrinks a model so it fits in less memory, with a small loss in quality. GGUF is a popular file format for these smaller models.

LocalAI	Drop-in local replacement for the OpenAI API	FREE
KoboldCpp	One-file local runner, popular for stories	FREE

> TIP
>
> Rough rule: a computer with 16 GB of memory runs 7–8 billion parameter models comfortably; 32 GB or more opens up much stronger ones. Start with a small model in LM Studio and work up.

21.10 More vector databases and search

An embedding turns text into a list of numbers that captures its meaning. A vector database stores embeddings so an app can find similar text fast. Together they power RAG (retrieval-augmented generation): looking up your documents before the AI answers.

3. Sign in and review permissions.
   Grant read-only access first if you can.
4. Ask a real question.
   “What’s on my calendar on Thursday, and what should I prepare?”
5. Disconnect what you don’t use.
   Fewer connections means less risk.

Glossary

Agent	An AI that takes several steps on its own, such as searching, clicking, and filling in forms, to finish a task.
Ambient scribe	A tool that listens to a conversation, with consent, and drafts notes from it. Common in healthcare.
API	A way for programs to use a service. Developers usually pay per use.
ATS	Applicant tracking system: software employers use to manage job applications.
Connector	A link between an AI assistant and another app, so the assistant can read and act in it. ChatGPT calls these apps.
CRM	Customer relationship management: software that tracks customers, deals, and conversations.
Embedding	A list of numbers that captures the meaning of a piece of text, used to find similar text.
Enrichment	Filling in missing details about a contact or company, such as job title or company size.
Eval	A repeatable test that checks the quality of an AI's output.
Extension	An add-on that gives an app, such as a browser or code editor, new features.
Framework	Ready-made code structure for building an app, so you only fill in the details.
Freemium	A product with a useful free tier and paid upgrades.
Gateway	A service between your app and many AI providers that handles keys, fallbacks, and spending limits.
GEO	Generative engine optimization: helping your brand appear in AI assistants' answers. Also called AEO.
GGUF	A popular file format for compressed models you run locally.
Guardrails	Checks that block unsafe or unwanted AI inputs and outputs.
Headless browser	A web browser with no window, controlled by code.

Help desk	Software where customer support tickets are tracked and answered.
IDE	Integrated development environment: the app programmers write code in.
Local	Running on your own computer rather than a company's servers.
MCP	Model Context Protocol: an open standard that lets AI apps connect to tools and data through "servers".
MCP server	A small program or web address that gives an AI app a set of tools, such as searching a database.
Model	The trained AI "brain" behind a tool. Many apps can use the same model.
Node	One box, or step, in a visual workflow tool such as n8n.
Observability	Recording what an AI app did, step by step, so you can debug and improve it.

Plugin	A bundle of skills, connectors, and commands that adds a kind of work to Claude.
Prompt injection	Hidden instructions in a web page or file that try to trick an AI into doing something you did not ask for.
Quantization	Shrinking a model so it fits in less memory, with a small loss in quality.
RAG	Retrieval-augmented generation: looking up relevant documents before the AI answers.
Reranker	A model that re-sorts search results so the most relevant come first.
RPA	Robotic process automation: software that clicks through apps the way a person would.
Sandbox	A sealed-off computer where an agent can run code safely.
Scraping	Pulling information out of web pages automatically.
SDK	Software development kit: a code library for building on a platform.
Self-hosted	Installed and run by you, on your own computer or server.
SEO	Search engine optimization: helping pages rank in search results.

Speech-to-text	Turning spoken audio into written text. Also called transcription or STT.
Terminal agent	A coding agent that works in the text window where developers type commands.
Text-to-speech	Reading text aloud in a synthetic voice. Also called TTS.
Vector database	A database that stores embeddings so apps can find similar content quickly.
Vibe coding	Building software by describing what you want to an AI, rather than writing the code yourself.
Voice cloning	Copying a person's voice from a short sample. Use only with permission.
